ELEPHANT ISLAND, ANTARCTICA

The island's odd moniker, so dubbed by passing seafarer George Powell in 1821, derives its name from both the seals who live there and from its unusual shape: like the head of a circus elephant. The island is the largest (roughly 23 x 13 miles) in the Elephant Island Group which also includes Gibbs, Corwallis, Clarence and Aspland islands. About a century after Powell's pass-by, Elephant Island became the refuge for 28 other seamen who first lost their ship, the Endurance, after it was wrecked by sea ice and then rode those ice floes with what they could save from their ship to the island for their survival. The men were part of Sir Ernest Shackelton's expedition and they established a camp at a place they called Point Wild. Shackelton and five of his crew members then set off in a lifeboat to find a rescue ship for the remaining crew members. Four months later they returned aboard a Chilean navy tugboat and all the men were rescued. Shackelton returned home and after a period of lecturing, grew bored and organized the finances and crew for one last trip back to Antarctica. He never made it though, dying of a heart attack on the island of South Georgia in the South Atlantic.

ESTIMATED ANTARCTICA CRUISING SCHEDULE

Celebrity Infinity is expected to arrive into Elephant Island from late afternoon or early evening. Sailing times are subject to change depending on pilots, weather conditions, wind, visibility, currents and environmental operations. For an updated sailing schedule, please listen to Captain's Morning Announcement at 9:45am. Additionally, please refer to the navigational updates with Celia and Alejandro at 12 Noon and 3:00pm in the public address system indoors around the ship and on TV Channel 1 in your stateroom.

Upon our arrival in Elephant Island, your Cruise Director Alejandro and our Celebrity Activity Speaker Celia Garland will provide navigational updates and some narrations about the scenery from the navigational bridge. Please be advised that no announcements will be broadcasted on open decks in Antarctica waters in order to minimize the disturbance to wildlife in this region. The narrations can be heard in all public venues indoors around the ship and on TV Channel 1 in your stateroom. Following this we will proceed towards Port Stanley, Falkland Islands. Travel distance is approximately 604 nautical miles.

INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF ANTARCTICA TOUR OPERATORS (IAATO) REGULATIONS

As part of IAATO regulations and our "Save the Waves" policy, it is strictly forbidden to throw anything overboard. Please be careful not to drop or throw any litter overboard. Secure any food packaging and personal items when out on deck to avoid them being blown overboard. Decomposition is slow in cold climates and animals can get entangled in, or poisoned by litter. Antarctica is the largest wilderness area on earth. Please help to keep it that way.
